The VOICE Public-Private Partnership award has been given to Rob Tinlin, Chief Executive of Southend-on-Sea Borough Council. This award is given for the good job he has done in promoting road safety in the city. Mr Tinlin has successfully procured private funding for investment in various infrastructure measures, including several designed for vulnerable road users. He is an example of what local authorities in Europe can do to secure road safety funding.

VOICE Vulnerable road users Organisations In Cooperation across Europe is another NGO network ensuring the neglected VOICE of vulnerable road users is heard in the transport debate. For more information on members of the Network and our activities visit the VOICE web site at: www.etsc.be/Voice.php.

Voice is co-financed by the European Commission
